SEJAM BEM-VINDOS (AS) AO VII CONGRESSO BRASILEIRO DE DIREITO DO MAR!

É com grande alegria que recebemos professores, pesquisadores, estudantes, profissionais e estudiosos para mais uma edição do Congresso Brasileiro de Direito do Mar, espaço acadêmico concebido para o desenvolvimento, a consolidação e a difusão dos estudos sobre o mar no Brasil.

O Congresso Brasileiro de Direito do Mar foi o primeiro evento acadêmico de caráter permanente realizado no país especificamente dedicado ao tema. Desde suas primeiras edições, contribuiu para desencadear um importante movimento de reflexão teórica nas universidades brasileiras, estimulando a formação de grupos de pesquisa, a produção científica especializada e a progressiva inserção do Direito do Mar nos programas curriculares, nas pesquisas de graduação e pós-graduação e, mais recentemente, nos conteúdos exigidos em concursos e carreiras públicas.

Nesse processo, o Centro de Estudos em Direito do Mar da Universidade de São Paulo – CEDMAR/USP tem desempenhado papel relevante na sedimentação das bases teóricas da disciplina, buscando desenvolver uma perspectiva genuinamente brasileira e latino-americana para a interpretação dos fenômenos jurídicos relacionados ao mar, sem perder de vista o necessário diálogo com as diferentes escolas e tradições teóricas existentes no mundo.

É nesse ambiente intelectual que se insere a Blue Amazon Doctrine, concebida como proposta teórica destinada a ampliar a compreensão jurídica do espaço marítimo. O mar não deve ser interpretado exclusivamente a partir das categorias clássicas de soberania, jurisdição, delimitação ou exploração econômica dos recursos naturais. Ele deve ser compreendido, sobretudo, como espaço de proteção da vida, da dignidade humana, da sustentabilidade, da inclusão e dos direitos fundamentais.

Essa mudança de perspectiva encontra expressão também nas iniciativas voltadas à afirmação dos Direitos Humanos no Mar, que procuram colocar a pessoa humana no centro das relações jurídicas desenvolvidas nos espaços marítimos e oceânicos.

Nesta edição, o Congresso Brasileiro de Direito do Mar, recepcionado pela Justiça Federal no Rio Grande do Norte e realizado em parceria com a Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Norte, avança mais um passo nesse percurso intelectual ao propor como desafio central uma mudança de eixo interpretativo: compreender o Direito do Mar como Direito Fundamental.

SEJAM BEM-VINDOS (AS) AO VII CONGRESSO BRASILEIRO DE DIREITO DO MAR!

Trata-se de superar a percepção do mar como tema periférico ou excessivamente especializado do sistema jurídico para reconhecê-lo como espaço essencial à realização de direitos fundamentais e à própria existência humana. O mar relaciona-se diretamente com a vida, a alimentação, o trabalho, o desenvolvimento, a mobilidade, o meio ambiente equilibrado, a segurança, a produção de energia, a preservação da biodiversidade e a sustentabilidade das gerações presentes e futuras.

Por isso, pensar juridicamente o mar significa também pensar o futuro da humanidade.

Pesquisadores de diferentes regiões do Brasil e do exterior foram convidados a participar desta edição e a produzir reflexões sobre essa nova posição do Direito do Mar no sistema jurídico, dialogando, especialmente, com as perspectivas teóricas propostas pela Blue Amazon Doctrine e com os grandes desafios contemporâneos da governança dos oceanos.

Ao longo de três dias, conferências, painéis e apresentações de trabalhos proporcionarão um ambiente plural e qualificado de debate acadêmico, reunindo diferentes gerações de pesquisadores e distintas perspectivas teóricas. Mais do que a realização de um evento, o Congresso representa a continuidade de um movimento científico que demonstra a força alcançada pela disciplina no Brasil e o amadurecimento de uma comunidade acadêmica comprometida com a construção de um pensamento próprio sobre o mar.

Agradeço profundamente a todos os pesquisadores, conferencistas, congressistas, estudantes, ouvintes, instituições parceiras, apoiadores e colaboradores que tornaram possível esta edição. Cada participante passa, a partir deste encontro, a integrar também a história da construção e consolidação do Direito do Mar no Brasil.

Convido todos a participarem intensamente dos debates, a compartilharem suas pesquisas, a construir novas redes acadêmicas e, sobretudo, a contribuir para o fortalecimento de uma escola brasileira e latino-americana de pensamento sobre o Direito do Mar, aberta ao diálogo internacional, mas consciente de sua identidade, de seus desafios e de sua contribuição original à ciência jurídica.

Muito obrigado por sua presença!

Desejamos a todos um excelente Congresso Brasileiro de Direito do Mar!!

WELCOME TO THE 7TH BRAZILIAN CONGRESS ON THE LAW OF THE SEA!

It is with great pleasure that we welcome professors, researchers, students, professionals, and scholars to another edition of the Brazilian Congress on the Law of the Sea, an academic forum conceived to foster the development, consolidation, and dissemination of studies on the sea in Brazil.

The Brazilian Congress on the Law of the Sea was the first permanent academic event held in the country specifically dedicated to this field. Since its earliest editions, it has contributed to the emergence of an important movement of theoretical reflection within Brazilian universities, encouraging the establishment of research groups, the production of specialized scholarship, and the progressive incorporation of the Law of the Sea into academic curricula, undergraduate and graduate research, and, more recently, into the subjects required in public service and professional examinations.

Throughout this process, the Center for Studies on the Law of the Sea of the University of São Paulo – CEDMAR/USP has played an important role in consolidating the theoretical foundations of the discipline, seeking to develop a genuinely Brazilian and Latin American perspective for interpreting legal phenomena related to the sea, while maintaining the necessary dialogue with the different schools and theoretical traditions that have developed around the world.

It is within this intellectual environment that the Blue Amazon Doctrine emerges, conceived as a theoretical proposal aimed at broadening the legal understanding of maritime space. The sea should not be interpreted exclusively through the classical categories of sovereignty, jurisdiction, delimitation, or the economic exploitation of natural resources. Above all, it must be understood as a space for the protection of life, human dignity, sustainability, inclusion, and fundamental rights.

This change in perspective is also reflected in initiatives aimed at affirming Human Rights at Sea, which seek to place the human person at the center of legal relations taking place in maritime and oceanic spaces.

In this edition, the Brazilian Congress on the Law of the Sea, hosted by the Federal Justice in Rio Grande do Norte and held in partnership with the Federal University of Rio Grande do Norte, takes another step forward in this intellectual journey by proposing a central theoretical challenge: to understand the Law of the Sea as a Fundamental Right.

WELCOME TO THE 7TH BRAZILIAN CONGRESS ON THE LAW OF THE SEA!

This means overcoming the perception of the sea as a peripheral or excessively specialized subject within the legal system and recognizing it instead as an essential space for the realization of fundamental rights and for human existence itself. The sea is directly connected to life, food, work, development, mobility, an ecologically balanced environment, security, energy production, biodiversity conservation, and the sustainability of present and future generations.

Therefore, to think about the sea from a legal perspective is also to think about the future of humanity.

Researchers from different regions of Brazil and from abroad have been invited to participate in this edition and to develop reflections on this new position of the Law of the Sea within the legal system, engaging especially with the theoretical perspectives proposed by the Blue Amazon Doctrine and with the major contemporary challenges of ocean governance.

Over the course of three days, lectures, panels, and paper presentations will provide a pluralistic and highly qualified environment for academic debate, bringing together different generations of researchers and diverse theoretical perspectives. More than simply an academic event, the Congress represents the continuation of a scientific movement that demonstrates the strength achieved by the discipline in Brazil and the maturity of an academic community committed to developing its own intellectual approach to the sea.

I would like to express my profound gratitude to all researchers, speakers, participants, students, attendees, partner institutions, supporters, and collaborators who have made this edition possible. By taking part in this gathering, each participant also becomes part of the history of the development and consolidation of the Law of the Sea in Brazil.

I invite everyone to participate actively in the debates, to share their research, to build new academic networks, and, above all, to contribute to strengthening a Brazilian and Latin American school of thought on the Law of the Sea, open to international dialogue while remaining conscious of its own identity, its challenges, and its original contribution to legal scholarship.

Thank you very much for being with us!

We wish you all an outstanding Brazilian Congress on the Law of the Sea!

Professor WAGNER MENEZES
President of the Brazilian Congress on the Law of the Sea

¡BIENVENIDOS AL VII CONGRESO BRASILEÑO DE DERECHO DEL MAR!

Es con gran alegría que recibimos a profesores, investigadores, estudiantes, profesionales y estudiosos en una nueva edición del Congreso Brasileño de Derecho del Mar, un espacio académico concebido para el desarrollo, la consolidación y la difusión de los estudios sobre el mar en Brasil.

El Congreso Brasileño de Derecho del Mar fue el primer evento académico de carácter permanente realizado en el país específicamente dedicado a esta materia. Desde sus primeras ediciones, ha contribuido a impulsar un importante movimiento de reflexión teórica en las universidades brasileñas, estimulando la formación de grupos de investigación, la producción científica especializada y la progresiva incorporación del Derecho del Mar a los programas académicos, a las investigaciones de grado y posgrado y, más recientemente, a los contenidos exigidos en concursos públicos y carreras profesionales.

En este proceso, el Centro de Estudios en Derecho del Mar de la Universidad de São Paulo – CEDMAR/USP ha desempeñado un papel relevante en la consolidación de las bases teóricas de la disciplina, buscando desarrollar una perspectiva genuinamente brasileña y latinoamericana para la interpretación de los fenómenos jurídicos relacionados con el mar, sin perder de vista el necesario diálogo con las diferentes escuelas y tradiciones teóricas existentes en el mundo.

Es en este ambiente intelectual donde se inserta la Blue Amazon Doctrine, concebida como una propuesta teórica destinada a ampliar la comprensión jurídica del espacio marítimo. El mar no debe ser interpretado exclusivamente a partir de las categorías clásicas de soberanía, jurisdicción, delimitación o explotación económica de los recursos naturales. Debe ser comprendido, sobre todo, como un espacio de protección de la vida, de la dignidad humana, de la sostenibilidad, de la inclusión y de los derechos fundamentales.

Este cambio de perspectiva también encuentra expresión en las iniciativas dirigidas a la afirmación de los Derechos Humanos en el Mar, que buscan situar a la persona humana en el centro de las relaciones jurídicas desarrolladas en los espacios marítimos y oceánicos.

En esta edición, el Congreso Brasileño de Derecho del Mar, acogido por la Justicia Federal en Rio Grande do Norte y realizado en colaboración con la Universidad Federal de Rio Grande do Norte, avanza un paso más en este recorrido intelectual al proponer como desafío teórico central comprender el Derecho del Mar como Derecho Fundamental.

¡BIENVENIDOS AL VII CONGRESO BRASILEÑO DE DERECHO DEL MAR!

Se trata de superar la percepción del mar como una materia periférica o excesivamente especializada dentro del sistema jurídico para reconocerlo como un espacio esencial para la realización de los derechos fundamentales y para la propia existencia humana. El mar se relaciona directamente con la vida, la alimentación, el trabajo, el desarrollo, la movilidad, el medio ambiente ecológicamente equilibrado, la seguridad, la producción de energía, la preservación de la biodiversidad y la sostenibilidad de las generaciones presentes y futuras.

Por ello, pensar jurídicamente el mar significa también pensar en el futuro de la humanidad.

Investigadores de diferentes regiones de Brasil y del extranjero han sido invitados a participar en esta edición y a desarrollar reflexiones sobre esta nueva posición del Derecho del Mar en el sistema jurídico, dialogando especialmente con las perspectivas teóricas propuestas por la Blue Amazon Doctrine y con los grandes desafíos contemporáneos de la gobernanza de los océanos.

A lo largo de tres días, conferencias, paneles y presentaciones de trabajos proporcionarán un ambiente plural y cualificado para el debate académico, reuniendo a diferentes generaciones de investigadores y distintas perspectivas teóricas. Más que la realización de un evento, el Congreso representa la continuidad de un movimiento científico que demuestra la fuerza alcanzada por la disciplina en Brasil y la madurez de una comunidad académica comprometida con la construcción de un pensamiento propio sobre el mar.

Expreso mi profundo agradecimiento a todos los investigadores, conferencistas, congresistas, estudiantes, asistentes, instituciones colaboradoras, entidades de apoyo y colaboradores que han hecho posible esta edición. Cada participante pasa, a partir de este encuentro, a formar parte también de la historia de la construcción y consolidación del Derecho del Mar en Brasil.

Invito a todos a participar intensamente en los debates, a compartir sus investigaciones, a construir nuevas redes académicas y, sobre todo, a contribuir al fortalecimiento de una escuela brasileña y latinoamericana de pensamiento sobre el Derecho del Mar, abierta al diálogo internacional, pero consciente de su identidad, de sus desafíos y de su contribución original a la ciencia jurídica.

¡Muchas gracias por su presencia!

¡Les deseamos a todos un excelente Congreso Brasileño de Derecho del Mar!
